

Title	Test Purpose	Pre-requirements	Step Number	Step	Expected Result	Actual Result
Email sent when product is low on stock	This test is to ensure an email is sent to a designated operative when a product is low in stock	The tester must have access to the vending machine noted in the requirements, this machine should be powered on and set up as expected in a user facing environment. The tester should be set up as a designated operative and have an email available and in the system with which to send and read alerts.	1	Purchase one item repeatedly until x (To be specified) amount remain.	Email is sent to the designated operative
			2	Open the email linked to the designated operative in the pre-requirements	An email from the vending machine is shown giving information on the low stock item
Email sent when product is out of stock	This test is to ensure an email is sent to a designated operative when a product is out of stock	The tester must have access to the vending machine noted in the requirements, this machine should be powered on and set up as expected in a user facing environment. The tester should be set up as a designated operative and have an email available and in the system with which to send and read alerts.	1	Purchase one item repeatedly until none of that item remains	Email is sent to the designated operative
			2	Open the email linked to the designated operative in the pre-requirements	An email from the vending machine is shown giving information on the out of stock item
Email sent when the vending machine temperature drops below x temperature	This test is to ensure an email is sent to a designated operative when the vending machine goes below a predetermined range	The tester must have access to the vending machine noted in the requirements, this machine should be powered on and set up as expected in a user facing environment. The tester should be set up as a designated operative and have an email available and in the system with which to send and read alerts. The vending machine temperature predetermined range should be set and be available to the tester	1	Turn up the refrigeration of the vending machine until the temperature drops below the predetermined range set in the pre-requisite	Email is sent to the designated operative
			2	Open the email linked to the designated operative in the pre-requirements	An email from the vending machine is shown giving information on the vending machines low temperature

